Re: Call to end pogrom of Christians in Orissa

Dear Madam President:

Through international media reports, I am aware of your attempts to stop the violence in Orissa. In spite of your efforts the carnage against Christian community continues not only in Kandhamal district but in several other districts of Orissa.

It is reported that 27 people are killed, 4014 houses destroyed, more than 50,000 people have left their homes and are either in the refugee camps or seeking shelter in the woods. Religious men and women personnel humiliated, beaten, tortured, some close to death. Churches, convents, orphanages, and other church institutions destroyed, burnt or looted.

I hope that in the coming weeks and months the Christian minority in Orissa receives compensation for their losses and that, under your protection, they once again feel secure in their homes and homeland. It was India's concern for its minorities that had brought it respect internationally. I also hope that the perpetrators of this violence be brought to justice so that these atrocities end.

Peacefully yours,
