

1 Sr. Isabel Mula, CPS reads during the college's celebration of St. Josephine Bakhita. The event honors the Sudanese woman who was a slave before she escaped to freedom and became a religious sister.

2 Culture Week is a DWC tradition that gives students an opportunity to enlighten the college community about the customs and traditions of their culture. Students of Burmese heritage shared sights, sounds and flavors of Myanmar.

3 Lunar New Year is widely celebrated in Asian countries but at DWC, everyone gets involved! This dance performance by students from various cultural backgrounds filled the stage and inspired guests to dance and sing along.

4 DWC student Hoang Son Vu rolled up his sleeves after class to work on the landscaping and help keep the Divine Word College campus beautiful. Indeed, many hands make light work!

7 Fr. Huy Quoc Huu Nguyen gets involved in a lively game of charades during a meeting of the college's English Club. Games are a fun way to encourage ESL students to practice their language skills.

7

8 The annual volleyball tournament is a fun DWC tradition that helps students stay active even during cold weather. Those who don't play line the edges of the gymnasium to cheer on the players.
